

I believe that BPL needs further review and testing to ascertain just how it may/will impact other services. In particular, I am an amateur radio operator and have strong concerns about the impact on overall interference to amateur bands which will no doubt be affected by this technology. Broadband noise must be closely monitored and regulated to insure that overall service is not negatively impacted.